THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

ATLANTA, GEORGIA, FRIDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 21, 1888,

IS GIVEN A DATE BY THE SENATE

THE TARIFF BILL.

VOL. XXI.

ANGERS THEIR ALLIES IN THE HOUSE

A Conflict Between Colonel Buck and the Angier Boys-Mat Quay's Return From Washington.

WASHINGTON, December 20,-[Special.]-Congress takes a holiday from tomorrow af-ternoon until the 2d of January. That was the compromise affected between the two poparties in the senate today. It has been also agreed that a vote shall be taken on the tariff bill on January 21. This will throw the bill into the house on the 22d, and it will immediately be referred to the committee on ways and means. The ways and means men are very bitter in their denunciations of the democratic senators for agreeing to a date to vote on the tariff bill, as they say simply to get a holiday recess. They were anxious to have the democratic senators fight the bill and keep it from the house this session, consequently their judignation, now that it is given to them.

their indignation, now that it is given to them. They say most emphatically that it shall be pigeon-holed in the committee room, and that not even the internal revenue feature, which a very large majority of the house would accept, shall be acted upon. This statement from the ways and means men, have angered many other house democrats, who favor the repeal of the tebacco tax as incorporated in the senate bill, and they will make an effort to force the ways and means committee to make a report of a bill incorporating the internal revenue features of the senate bill.

Senator Quay returned from Indianapolis and appeared in the senate bill.

Senator Quay returned from Indianapolis and appeared in the senate chamber at 2 o'clock this afternoon. He only saw General Hartison about two hours yesterday jbut rumor has it that his mission was a success. His mission was to see that Senator Sherman was made secretary of state, and John Wannaker, of Philadelphia, postmaster-general. As Senator Quay appeared in the senate chamber this afternoon, he was quickly surrounded by the leaders on the republican side to learn the news. Sherman was the first to reach him, and to judge from the smile that slowly crept over the old man's face during the conversation, he must have received good news. Senator Hiscock, of New York, was next to speak with the shrewd Pennsylvanian. He wanted to hear what the president-elect would do with ex-Senator Platt. Hiscock listened attentively for a moment, and then withdrew, apparently disconcerted. Fre and Hale, of Maine, then went up to hear what was to become of the plumed knight, but Quay evidently told them nothing definite, rive and maie, of Maine, then went up to hear what was to become of the plumed knight, but Quay evidently told them nothing definite, although they clung around the Pennsylvanian for a leng time. Quay appeared to be happy, and there now seems to be no doubt of Mr. Wanamaker's appointment as posmaster general.

MORE NEWS FROM SHERMAN. A dispatch from Indianapolis this afternoon says that ex-Governor Porter, of Indiana, the man who nominated Harrison at the Chicago convention, and who is very close to the president-cloct, is authority for a positive statement tolay that Sherman will be made secretary of

His appointment would, however, meet with great disapprovation from many republicans of the south, who are already fighting him bitterly, and even some of his nearest frends have now given up all hope. One of his right hand men told me tonight that while Mahana and his friends were still working, he his right hand men told me tonight that while Mahone and his friends were still working, he had no hopes whatever for the Virginian. The members of the committee appointed by the southern republican caucus Tuesday night-Representatives Houk, McComas, Wade, Brown and Bowden—have decided to restrict their triangles. their action to recommending that some southern man be put in the cabinet, not naming a man, and advising a certain southern policy. There is no doubt of the entire failure of any movement in the interest of Mr. Mahone. Had they been able to keep the matter a secret and got mostly his friends together quietly, they might have succeeded in indorsing him, but it would have called forth protests when the action became known. The opposition have now got control of the movement, and without any show of lack of harmony in the movement. party, will proceed to act without regard to the

Mr. Aldrich asked him whether he regarded oranges as a necessity of life.

Mr. Call said he did not.

Aldrich asked, "on which the senator thinks the duty ought to be increased?"

"Yes," Mr. Call replied; "I think it ought to be increased on banamas and sponges."

Mr. Allison said that he sympathized with the views of the senator from Florida, but he thought that that senator should be a little more moderate. The finance committee had endeavored to keep the rates down as much as possible, but Florida interests had been fully protected in the amendment, which retained substantially the present rates of duty.

At 4:30 this morning the man of war Racer opened battle by shelling the enemy's treuches. Ships up the coast followed suit and landed parties, who lighted fires and plac. d dummies in position. This had the effect of deceiving the enemy. Coming from Herndoub, the whole force moved towards the enemy's left flank with a naval detachment with nachine guns, cavairy and mounted infantry scouting and protecting the thanks and rear. Two lines, comprising battallons in double companies, rushed towards the left corner of the gnemy's treuches, the British infantry and Egyptian reserve lining the emoankment between the water forts. General Grenfell and staff occupied a position to the left of the water forts. From five o'clock heavy salvos of guns and mortars from every fort bore on the treuches.

The enemy's loss was 400 strong. The hussars are still pursuing the Arabs. The trenches are nearly filled and two temporary redoubts are being built. The joint forces are entrenched. They will birouse on the field tonight, a naval detachment with machine guns remaining in the trenches. I have sent the man-of-war Starling and available steamers to anchor off Handoub in order to prevent the force from Handoub coming upon us. During the action the dervishes were so severely punished that we expect to have a quiet night.

A dispatch from Suakim says a feature of the fighting was the determined rush upon the teenches by the blacks and Egyptians. The dervishes fought with the utmost bravery, a great many of them dying in the trenches. The charge of the Hussars is also specially mentioned. When the dervish cavalry saw them coming they dismounted from their horses and planted their spears in the ground, but these proved no obstruction to the hussars, who swept down upon the dervish horsemen like an avalanche and cut through their ranks and left half of them dead on the ground. These articles were slanders against the south of the vilest character and it is stated that quite a number of these papers were distributed among negroes in this county. THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS STOLEN.
A little more than a year sign Barle was visiting his aged father, a well-to-do farmer in Elmorr county. One night Barker mysteriously disappeared and 83,000 in gold and silver from the old man's safe di-appeared at the same time.

The old man, Isaiah Barker, immediately swore out a warrant against his soo, and sent descriptive circulars all over the country, but the son, himself gray-headed and old enough to be a grandfather, could nowhere be found.

It seems that Isafah Barker was of thrifty disposition and half the amount stolen represented the savings and scrapings of years. The other half, or about $1,500, was the price paid a few days before for a plantation. The old man kept his money in a rickety iron safe and the school teacher knew it. That was over a year ago. The search was finally given up. The old man began again at the foot of the ladder and two months ago he had $500 stored away in the old from safe.

ANOTHER ROBBERY.

One night about six weeks ago be was waked up to find his recreant son standing by his bedside.

"Come back, have you?" he asked, rubbing his

"Yes, I'm back."
"Did you bring my money back." "No."
"Well, I'm going to have you arrested," said the old man, losing his temper. "You stole that

"How much have you got now?"
The old man stared hard and before he had answered the question, his son had seized him by the throat and thrown him back on the bed.
'You holler," said he, "and I'll kill you."
Trembling for his life, the old man promised to keep still, to withdraw the warrant, and to.

Trembling for his life, the old man promised to keep still, to withdraw the warrant, and to leve the he had in the safe.

He sat up in bed and watched his unnatural son take out the precious roll of greenbacks and stow them away in an overcoat pocket, and then listened to his steps as he walked oil in the darkness. It was not until the next morning that the old man dared to tell of the second robbery. Then another warrant was taken out against the school teacher and circular letters sent out to the police all over the southern states.

Last Tuesday Barker was arrested in Clarkston just after his school was dismissed for the day.

The mest remarkable part of the story is that Barker came to Clarkston just after the first robbery and soon made up a prosperous school.

An order was p. 8 and to pay the contractors $161, the difference in the cost of rast iron over galvanized iron for the balustrade in the dome.

The contract was awarded to the Almini company to freeco six rooms in the governor's suite, three rooms for the treasurer. Four rooms for the company to freeco six rooms in the governor's suite, three rooms for the treasurer. Four rooms for the company to freeco and the stream of the president, secretary and elerk of the senate. The cost off escoting the sixteen rooms will be $2,500. The work will be done in the best oil.

Commissioner Thomas was appointed a committee of one to secure a memorial tablet to be placed in the main entrance. Upon it will be inscribed a brief his o y of the building.

The superintendent was instructed to have the dome painted the color of the building, and to have flagstaffs created over the hall of the house of the sanate chamber.

A requisition was drawn on the governor for $28,931.20, to pay the indebtedness to date.

The new capitol will be finished by first of February, and the commissioners will have probably two or three thousand dollars of the sum appropriated to return to the state. The exact sum cannot now be ascertained, as there are several small extras to be paid for. The actual cost of the building, including all salaries; will be about nine hundred and seventy thousand dollars. SANDERSVILLE, GA., December 20.—[cpc-cial.[—Full details of the double tragedy which occurred near Linton, Haucock county, on yesterday, have reached this place. For a while several rumors, more or less conflicting, were being propagated, but finally the following circumstances of the murder, which are authentic and generally accorded here been brought to Sandersville.

the murder, which are authentic and generally accepted, have been brought to Saudersville:
Dr. J. A. P. Röbben, familiarly known as Pin, is a prominent physician of Linton. Some time since Jake Mathis, who lives on the plantation, in the vicinity of Mr. Bose Taylor, gave Dr. Robson a mort gage on some of his hogs for a debt due the doctor for professional services. Subsequently, its seems, that Mathis sold the mortgaged hogs to Taylor. On yesterday Dr. Robson, in company with William Cone, met Taylor and Mathis in the road, and the doctor brought Mathis to task for selling the hogs upon which he (Robson) had a mortgage.

HAWKINSVILLE, Ga., December 20.—[Special.]—On Tuesday morning O. R. Willis, a carpenter of Cochran, who had employed Sam Robinson to assist him in work on a building, had a dispute about Robinson's waces, which resulted in the shoeting of Willis by Robinson, who was struck by three pistol balls. Willis is thought to be mortally wounded. The marshal of Cochran went to arrest Robinson who, with pistol and shotcun, in hand refused arrest and defield posse. Reports say he opened fire ou arresting party, who returned fire quickly, with result of Robinson being wounded in two places. His wounds are dangerous and it is thought he will die. He is in the custody of the sheriff, but owing to his condition cannot be removed. > Macon, Ga. THE FLAG EPISODE AGAIN.

Macon, Ga., December 20.—[Special.]—The sole topic of conversation today, has been the flag episode. Judge Speer and United States Marshal Launar both maintain that the flag was a genuine regulation United States flag, but, a portion of the stripes had been torn off. The court is not disposed to treat the matter lightly, though many people are, for they understand and believe that the remnant of a flag was hung up in a spirit of fun and merriment, at half mast, in burlesque over the defeat of a local candidate for office. By some means the information reached buries due over the deteat of a local candidate for office. By some means the information reached the north at an early hour yesterday, and rothern journais were wiring for particulars. Judge Speer did not seem disposed to dismiss the matter with yesterday's attention, and on the opening of court this morning said:

yesterday's attentian, and on the opening of court this morning said:
"The presiding judge and the gentlemen who acted with him on yesterday in attempting to redress what appeared to be a deliberate and public dishonor to the flag, are as much delighted as any one could be at the published statement that it was not with such purpose that the flag was exposed and reversed, but from a thoughtless and idle spirit of meriment. We were aware that the flag was sumiliated but that did not detract from the significance of the incident, it was none the less what the cloquent Websiter calls the "gorgeous ensign of our country." And whatever the motive that prompted the perpetators of the act be. or whatever others may think, there are those who will never behold any apparent indignity to the national colors without the most poignant sensibility and the most gloomy lorebodings for the careless and unpatriotic spirit such wanton action inculcates. If there was ever a people whom it behooved at all times to show devotion to the symbols of government, law and order, it is the southern people at this time. The flag whose multiated beauties and whose reversed union was exposed on yesterday to the contumely and was exposed on yesterday to the contumely an derision of the passer-by, may tomorrow be the rally ing point at which good men and true may assembl to defend and enforce the law, to protect wife and little ones, and all that men hold dear. There is bu little ones, and all that men hold dear. There is but one solution for all our roubles in the south, and that is a respect for law, its shady and impartial enforcement, obedience to the national law, a devotion to the flag of our country and all those principles of good government which it typifies and represents in the minds of all men. It is well to be sensitive for the flag. It is well for the youth of the country, the rising generation, to be apprised and to know that there are thousands among us who love it and honor its stainless glory, and who will never without protest see its hallowed folds floating in dishonor, be it intended or not."

It is add that some of the juvors and others have expressed an intention of presenting Judge Speer with a Caristinas present in the shape of a new

The party went over the Covington and Macon road on a tour of inspection, and they were delighted with the country through which the road past is, and were pleased with the road bed and the easy riding of the same. It was expected that the Covington and Macon would made connection at Athens today with the Richmond and Danville road at the northeastern depot, and thus through connection obtained from Macon to New York over a new and fast roue. The Covington and Macon can make Fiorida connections at Macon with the Central, Georgia Southern and East Tennessee.

There is a new chapter in the history of the Robert Leeson Porter case, which has already attracted so much attention. Porter is a crazy Irishman of good family, who was in jail here on the charge of being Scott Partin, the Wake county wife murderer. Afte his release he escaped from his friends here, was re-captured, but six weeks ago again got away from them. Today your correspondent saw John Lee, who is the Irishman who took Porter to his home here, and from whose house Porter escaped. Lee says he has just returned from a search for Porter, lasting over three weeks. He has been in every large city as far north as Boston, and has been able to gather tidings of Porter only at Nor-folk, Va. He found that Porter, who had fied from his home hatless and without shoes, made his way to Norfolk, and was last seen four miles from there. He was in the public read and was given rides in wagons. He suddenly jumped off and sprang into the woods. Lee believes he has perished from exposure. Garrett, a prominent young man of that section, charged with the seduction of a young woman in Dayton, Washington territory. Officer E. T. Young, representing the territory, had secured the requisition of Goveror Scales for Garrett. He is thirty years of age, and is a son of 'Squire John Garrett, one of the most prominent citizens of that section of the county. It appears that Garrett in 1882 went to Washington territory, and, stopping near Dayton, became acquainted with a prominent planter by the name of Brown. Young Garrett being a handsome fellow, finally grew to be very agreeable to Farmer Brown's young daughter, Miss Sarab, now aged eighteen. The young couple seemed much devoted to each other, until in September last, when it was announced that Garrett had disappeared mysteriously. Then the rumor became current that had brought the rum of pretty Miss Brown. An effort was made to find where he came from, and when it was known that he was from this state, successful inquiries were at once made regarding him. A requisition was secured and on Tuesday night at 10 o'clock, while his father's large family was merry making over the young main's return home, three officers stepped into the Garrett farm hoaseand arrested the son. Officer Young left yesterday with his prisoner.

THE SENATE DEFEATS THE BRANCH COLLEGE APPROPRIATIONS.

That Partion Stricken From the Appropriation Bill -An Effort to Reconsider Today

O.her Legislative News. Senator Eay did it with his little amend-

Did what? Why, swept away the appropriations to the branch colleges of the state university.

It came about in this way: While the Senate was considering the appropriation bill yesterday afternoon, and just as Mr. Cabaniss was beginning to read the lines: "To the state university for the support and maintenance of the branch college at Dah-lonega, three thousand dellars per annua," Mr. Ray, of the 14th, took the floor and said: Mr. President, I move to amend by striking out the appropriations to the state university for the branch colleges—$3,000 for Dahlouega, $2,000 for Milledgeville, $2,000 for Thomasville and $2,000 for Cuthbert. The motion produced a ripple in the body. ME. RICE FAVORS THE APPROPRIATION.

Mr. Rice made some strong points against the amendment. The Dahlonega branch college was not a local school, as some people contended. That college was attended by a number of students from a number of counties in the state. It afforded poor boys and girls in the mountain regions an opportunity to get an education who otherwise had no chance to get higher education. That college had taken poor boys from the plow and put them in the pulpit, on the bench, in stores and various other places where they had became honored and useful members of society. Senatar Rice told of a young lady, who had not a dollar in the world. She wanted an education. She went to Dahlonega and took in washing in order to earnthe matriculation fee; her mother carried rations to her. The young lady made the requisite $10, paid it and was admitted. She not only got an education, but had been fitted to adorn society. She was now an honored teacher.

A poor, but ambitious mountain boy, by cut-ting wood in the winter made enough to enter this college and secure an education. He was this college and seeme an education. He was now making a good living as a lawyer. But for the advantages afforded this girl and boy at Dahlonega, they would today be groping in ignerance. Many other like instances might

Mr. Hill said that the branch college a Dahlonega had taught 2,423 males and 847 fe-males, making in all up to date 3,270 poor young people who had been educated there. Of these 652 had become teachers—had gone abroad in that mountain country to enlighten and build up the people.

"Whatever you do," said Mr. Rice, "don't hit these branch colleges. They give secres of poor people education who, without them would be forced to struggle on in ignorance."

Senator Boyd made a telling speech against the amendment. He came from that dark and remote region—the spur end of the state. The Dahlonega branch college had been a Go. sond to the people of that section and other sections of Georgia. It was as a shining light in a dark place. Its rays spread over Georgia. While it had proven a blessing to that particular section, it was likewise true that thirty-three counties in Georgia were represented in that college. If this senate could only go to Dahlonega and be received by the people in their homes and see the good which was being done—not one man of them would vote for this amendment.

Mr. Bartlett—"Don't the University by contract, give Dahlonega college $2,000.0"

Mr. Boyd—"Yes." SENATOR BOYD.

Mr. Boyd—"Yes."

Mr. Bartlett—"Then why don't that college stand by the contract?"

Mr. Boyd—"It don't meet the necessities of the case. Since that contract was made, the institution has grown wonderfully, its good influences widening all the time. It needs this appropriation of $3,000 and more too. The sum is but a pittance in proportion to the good that will be done."

MR. RAY ASKS A QUESTION.

Mr. RAY ASKS A QUESTION.

Mr. Ray wanted to know if Lumpkin county identified her proportion of the common dead for the common did not get her proportion of the common school fund.

"Yes," replied Mr. Boyd.
"What better claims," asked Mr. Ray, "have four counties, which have their branch colleges, than the 133 other counties in the state?"
"What county are you from?"
Mr. Ray—"I am from Dooly county."
"Well, if a branch college was located in Dooly, or any Jother counties in Georgia, it worst get my hearty support for appropriation. I wish it were practicable to have branch colleges in every county in Georgia. The last census report cast a stigma upon Georgia in the matter of illiteracy—a stigma which I want to see wiped out before I die—which the branch calleges of Georgia are now helping to branch colleges of Georgia are now helping to wipe out. Let us not cripple our schools, but foder them."

SENATOR STROTHER FOR THE SCHOOLS.

Mr. Strother fought the amendment with great earnestness. He believed that it was the duty of Georgia to support these branch colleges. They were connecting links between the common schools and the university. The common schools were feeders to the branch common schools were feeders to the branch colleges, and they, in turn, were feeders to the university. Without the branch colleges there could be no symmetrical education for the people of Georgia. These branch colleges should be supported for another and better reason still. They gave the poor girls of Georgia their only chance for free education in the highest beautiful.

Mr. Strother said that he would raise his voice higher than heaven if he could in the interest of female education. Mr. Ray had said that the Dahlonega branch was a local "Local, indeed! Why, since that college has been established inine students from Dooly, the gentleman's own county, hav.

SENATOR SANFORD. Mr. Sanford opposed the amendment. The main question before the legislature was the education of the people. Of the 219 members of the general assembly only one was a negro. This showed the great superiority of the whites and it was due to education. He was simply in favor of the appropriation to the branch colleges.

Mr. Edwards made a brief but solid speech

Mr. Edwards made a brief but solid speech against the amendment.

SENATOR WHITFIELD.

Mr. Whitfield attacked the amendment with great viger—making an effective speech. The $0,000 which the amendment proposed to strike out was a mere pittance to these colleges, when weighed against the good which they have done and are doing. These colleges had been placed under the fostering care of the State university by the act of 1879. Many facts were cited to show the great work which these colleges have accomplished. The trustees of the university had given $2,000 at one time and about $1,500 at another to the Milledgeville branch college. The balance is done by the people of Milledgeville, who do more than the entire commonwealth toward its support. In eight years this branch college has taught 3,500 purplis. more than the entire commonwerith toward its support. In eight years this branch college has taught 3,500 pupils. There were now about 451 at this college. The 652 teachers turned out at Dahlonega had probably taught 20,000 children. The State university has probably taught 150 students in the last few years.

There was a poor but ambitious young man in Macon. He could not afford to go to the university. Through the kindness of another he cutered the branch college at Miledgeville. There he was educated. Recently he stood a fine examination at the Macon har and would be develop into an honored and useful citi-

Mr. Hill said that the branch college at Dahlonega had taught 2,423 males and 847 females, making in all up to date 3,270 poor young people who had been educated there. Of these 352 had become teachers—had gone abroad in that mountain country to enlighten and build up the people.

"Whatever you do," said Mr. Rice, "don't hit these branch colleges. They give sceres of poor people education who, without them would be forced to struggle on in ignorance." SENATOR BOYD.

Senator Boyd made a telling speech against he amendment. He came from that dark and remote region—the spur end of the state. Strother fought the amendment with amestness. He believed that it was the difference of Georgia to support these branches. They were connecting links between amon schools and the university. SENATOR SANFORD.

Mr. Sanford opposed the amendment. The main question before the legislature was the education of the people. Of the 219 members of the general assembly only one was a negro. This showed the great superiority of the whites and it was due to education. He was simply in favor of the appropriation to the branch colleges.

Mr. Edwards made a brief but solid speech came up in the house yesterday for a third reading.

Mr. Smith, of Gwinnett, proposed to amend the bill by striking out three and inserting one and a half miles.

Mr. Carithers, of Walton, proposed to amend by providing that the act should not affect Walton county.

Mr. Smith said he would favor one and a half miles as a compromise. He did not know that the people of his county wanted the bill passed. It had been introduced by Senator McCarty, of Jackson county, who did not represent his county. He thought the people of Gwinnett would have asid something to him about this measure if they had wanted it introduced.

Mr. Twitty, of Jackson, favored the bill, of $1.50.

The committee amendment to pay J. Troupe Taylor $190 to index the laws.

The committee amendment to appropriate $1,000 for the purchase of law books by the state librarian under the direction of the supreme court, and an amendment by Mr. Hall to devote the entire proceeds from the sale of Georgia reports to the same purpose. purpose.

The committee amendment to appropriate $80.000 to the support of the lunatic asylum, $3,000 of which sum to be expended on an artestan well.

By Mr. Whitfield—To appropriate $3,500 for the construction of a brick warehouse for storage purposes at the luna ic asylum. Mr. Twitty, of Jackson, favored the bill, and was opposed to any amendments. Jackson county was dry, and Jug Tavern, which was situated near the Gwinnett line, had been affected by the sale. It also was very distasteful to citizens who sent their children to school in that section. Before the bill was acted on the hour for the special order arrived. Yesterday, during the afternoon session of the senate, Mr. Rice introduced a resolution to the effect that the military post near Atlanta was appreaching completion, and embodving a request that the secretary of war shall give it the name of the Winfield S. Mr. Rice asked the unanimous consent of the senate to consider the resolution, whereupon Senator Gibbs arose and said, with embhasis:

DEAR SIR—With much pleasure I am happy to say I am a well woman today, and have gained 37 pounds since I stopped taking morphine. After taking the first dose of your medicine did not want any more morphine, and my friends who saw me a month before I started to taking your medicine do not know me. You have made me a well and hearty woman, and I hope God will bless you and that you may cure all afflicted, for when a woman gets into the habit she had as well be dead. When I left Cedar Keys and came here, and when your medicine gave out I was all right. I wanted to wait and see if I would remain so. Doctor, you can use my name if you wish. ATLANTA, GA., DECEMBER 21, 1888.

The Branch College Appropriations. The senate yesterday, by a vote of twenty to nineteen, struck out the appropriation of $3,000 to the branch college of the state aniversity at Dahlonega and of $2,000 each to the branch colleges at Milledgeville, Thomasville and Cuthbert, which the house of representatives passed in the appropriation bill. An effort to reconsider will be made this morning, and it is said that several senators will be present who were absent yesterday, and who are counted as being favorable to the house appropriations. In our opinion the senate will make a mistake to refuse these appropriations. The branch colleges have made a splendid showing before the legislature and have clearly demonstrated the merit of their work as state institutions. They represent all sections of the state and form an important part in the educational system of the state. Nothing that the legislature has done has been received with more favor by the people than the action of the house in so liberally recognizing the educational interests of the state in its appropriations for the common school and university funds. The verdict of approval has been practically unanimous. Let the senate stand by the house, and at least try the experiment one time of a generous recognition of the necessity of a liberal appropriation for the common schools. and the several branches of the university. There is no objection to the $18,000 appropriation for the Technological school, nor to the common school appropriation; the others involve but a small amount. Give It and see what will be the return. It is

IT is remarked of Mr. Charles A. Dana, who had an audience at the vatican the other day, that he is the only North Amercan editor who can talk to the pope in five modern languages, including United States.

Railroads and State Regulation.

Mr. Charles Francis Adams, who is himself a railroad manager, has recently delivered an address in which he says that the present deplorable railway situation is as much the result of bad systems of management as the operations of the interstate

It is pretty late in the day for as wise a man as Mr. Adams to be going over this ground. It is an old plea, and it is one that was made in a very emphatic way by the railroads in their opposition to the establishment of the railroad commission of Georgia.

When General Robert Toombs thundered in the constitutional convention of 1877 against the "pool" which bound the railways of this state together and smothered competition, the excuse was that the pool was the result of an effort on the part of the railroad managers to protect themselves against the rapacity and greed of each other.

In other words, the pool was made necessary by the wild-cat management which characterized the railroads when each was left to its own resources. This was all clearly stated in an admirably written pamphlet from the pen of Colonel H. S. Haines, himself one of the wisest and most conservative railway managers this country has ever

As a matter of course, the bad management which resulted in wild-cat competition was bad-as bad on the business of this section as it was on the railroads-and some remedy was absolutely necessary. The pool was the necessary outcome of the situation, but the operations of the pool were as dis- Major R. J. When this system was at its worst the to regulate matters. It was found, however, Georgia soil, if it is properly managed. that the commission could only regulate local traffic, and then the interstate commission was established. It lies ill in the with of the railroads and their managers to complain about the effect of state or federal legislation. They have had the remade. In their own hands for a good mamy years, but they refused to apply to. Now that the state has applied it they would do well to make the most of the situation. They should hasten to profit by the opportunity that state regulation gives them to put in operation the principles of good manage-

Compulsory Education.

In New York and Illinois people are wondering why their compulsory education laws do not work as well as those of Massachusetts, and their law makers are looking the principle in the case is already settled. to any great extent. Possibly it is, but the Press goes on to say hat one reason why our school laws are defective is because they are generally the outcome of suggestions made by professional teachers who are not much given to studying practical ways and means. It will occur to many that this accounts for some of the extreme educational measures now on trial, but such reflections will have but little weight with those who are willing to create an artificial crime in order to plunge our children headforemost into the Pierian spring.

This educational problem is destined to be a big factor in helping or injuring us, when it becomes more complex, with its federal control and its criminal features. The result may ram all the culture that is obtainable into future generations, but a moderate degree of ignorance would perhaps be preferable to schools of ignoble partisanry, turning out a race of slaves.

For the Girls. Out in Columbus, Miss., there is an institution that is doing a great work for the girls of that state. It is an industrial school for females, established on a similar plan to our technological school. This school was chartered by the state in 1884, the legislature appropriating from $2,000 to $2,500 annually for its support.

Bids for its location were advertised, and by donating twenty acres of land, worth $30,000, the town of Columbus secured it. The citizens of the town raised by subscription the sum of $50,000, which was given in the shape of non-interest drawing bonds, payable in one, two and three years.

The charter provided that so many girls from each county shall be entitled to attend the school, all that is required being an entrance fee of five dollars. . Girls are allowed to do work in the various branches of the school, where labor is paid for, and retain their earnings. So far the school has succeeded admirably. and is not a dollar burden on the state. It is rather a pet institution of the state, and three hundred and twenty-four girls are now in attendance, learning useful trades and professions specially adapted to female

Graduates of the institution become so proficient in the arts that they find no trouble in securing positions. The school embraces a number of departments, covering the whole line of money-making industrial pursuits, and the Mississiplans regard it as one of their greatest institutions.

A Piece of Land.

In the old days southern planters, instead of resting their land by fertilization and crop rotation, abandoned it as soon as it ceased to yield productively, and went on clearing up new grounds. The result was that the abandoned lands were turned into old fields.

In Georgia, nature took pity on these old fields, clothed them in a full suit of bermuda and spread above them the grateful shade of the pine. Much of this land has been reclaimed since the war, and, under the new system of farming, it is as fertile as ever it

Half a dozen young men, includng two lovers of the daughter of the dead man, who had witnessed the crime, were arrested, but there was no evidence against them, and they were released. Then the ceived in any article that will be useful to a boy, detectives went to work, and the result was the arrest of Thomas.

The most important witness against Thomas was the young lady who had seen the crime committed. She swore that she knew him to be one of the murderers by his voice which she had heard on the night in question. A detective also swore that he had overheard Thomas confess his guilt to his cell mate in jail.

So Thomas went to prison. After six years a fellow convict made a dying confession in which he stated that he had murdered Allen, and that Thomas was entirely

But all this has ceased. The southern people are less sensitive, and their northern friends are more considerate. There is no spirit of social intolerance in any part of Georgia, and we do not believe it exists today in any part of the south. Perhaps, however, the Republican knows more about the matter than THE CONSTITUTION. If so we should be glad to learn from our contemporary the evidence upon which it bases its statement that there ought to be a more tolerant social spirit here.

There are probably more northern men in the south than the Republican dreams of, and so far from social intolerance, the people of this section do not hesitate to go out of their way to make the northerners welcome.

in that editorial that the south was disposed and had used every pacific measure to invite the friendship of the north. We stated that this advice of the northern press was an insult to our honor as staunch American citizens, to our uprightness and to our sincere desire to have peace. We knew and said this spirit was not the sentiment of the vast body of the northern people; but it was the sentiment of many business men north—rabid republicans—who lent their support to the "bloody shirt" rress and politicians. It was against these men that we propose to war. We advised that our people live as economically as possil1, and to refuse their trade to those men who utter sentiments calculated to unhinge the present anticable relations existing between the races at the south.—There is nothing "the-eating" about the editorial. We simply refuse to patronize those men who abuse us and two our treeds to our friends and those who wish that hearty amicable relations may continue to exist between the two sections. The ris nothing wrong in that. The same principle prevails everywhere. No man will continue to trade with a merchant who, after securing his money, turns and spits in his face and threatens to organize a band to invade his premises and demoralize his labor. This was the position we took, but it did not suit the Tribune's object to publish the article setting forth the points.

Tribune's object to puonsa the article setting.

Nowhere have northern people been more warmly welcome than in Greene county; nowhere have the people more keenly appreciated the kindly feelings displayed by the upright northern citizen who is not blinded by politics and prejudice. We number among the best citizens of Greene; the most earnest, enterprising and sterling men, many people from northern and western states. They are our friends and we are theirs. But they are not men who would wish to demoralize our labor or to injure the stability of our institutions by means of the bayonet and the 'bloody shirt'. For these men and for all wish to demoralize our labor or to Injure the stability of our institutions by means of the bayonet and the 'bloody shirt' For these men and for all who are men of principal and honor—whether they come from the north; east or west—the southern people have the highest esteem.

No paper in Georgia has been me to earnest in endeavoring to increase the friendly feeling existing thetiween the north and south than the Herald and Journal. Its files will show that upon all occasions it has strangly advocated the coming among us of industrious people from the westland north. It has invited in the name of our people those good citizens who would come among us and aid in building up the untold resources of our country. It stands there today and will stand there forever. At the same time no man nor men, north or south, can villify our people; abuse our motives: or seek to overthrow the peaceful relations existing between rapital and labor, between the white and colored races, and expect us to calmly sit by and smile while we guip down the insuits. For that class of men we have the supremest contempt. So has every true and upright citizen, north and south.

We trust those papers which have published the Tribune's article will do us the justice and our people the justice to reproduce this cditorial.

Only lay Sunday you gave a very damaging account of our water supply and reported that one manufacturer who wanted a considerable quantity of water to start a new industry could not be supplied. Now, let us reason together. There is the Chattahoochee river, which according to good authority, can be tapped thirty-five to forty miles from this city by a canal and an abundance of water brought from there on to some one of the many elevations about the city, and distributed from there to all parts of the city. There would be surplus enough if the canal was properly constructed to fill any one of the many branches about the city with water, which could be utilized for manufacturing purposes to great advantage. With a succession of dams, the water could be controlled and made to do the work of thousands of horsepower as applied to steam. But it would cost big money. Of course it would. I do not pretend to know how much it would cost. But I do know of one town in the west with less than one thousand inhalitants and those people brought in a canal, heading it twenty-five miles away and bringing it over mountains and around precipices, through the roughest country imaginable at a cost of more than $500,000, every dollar of which was subscribed by the citizens of the town! voolen goods, or almost any kind of merchandise

Whatever might be its desire, or the desire of any of its memmight be its desire, or the desire of any of its members, to prove to the world their "progressiveness," and that they realized that "this is the closing part of the nineteenth century," it was ruminded, that even in the full-orbed splender of this wonderful age of "advancement," it was still simply a committee appointed by the conference to look after its own schools. It was held in the second place, that it was "inexpedient" and "unwise" for the conference, as an ecclesiastical body, to petition the legislature concerning a political and secular matter. Common school education by the state is not a distinctively "Inexpedient" and "unives" for the conference, as an ecclesiastical body, to petition the legislature concerning a political and secular matter. Common school education by the state is not a distinctively moral question, and therefore presented no urgent demand to the conference for its action in order to maintain its loyalty to Christ, and meet the exigencies of the times. On the other hand, it is a question about which the members of our church differ, and without moral wrong. Thousands of good, conscientious, intelligent and cuitivated Methodists within the bounds of the conference, do not believe in education by the state. Others are opposed to increased taxation, especially in the light of the race complication which belongs essentially to the question. In addition to this it will undoubtedly become a political is the in the next general election, if it may not already be so considered. For all these reasons it was impolitic and beyond the bounds of propriety for the conference to petition the legislature on the subject. This was the scope of the discussion on the part of the opposition, and would doubtless have largely voted it down. Just at "the nick of time," however, a compromise resolution was introduced as a substitute. It simply expressed its sympathy with the movement to secure "six months public schools." While the principle at issue was not affected by the change in the form of the question, yet to many of the brethren, who were strongly opposed to a petition or memorial to the legislature, it seemed a very harmless affair. The assurance which the conference virtually refused to memorialize, but did overstep the bounds of propriety in having anything whatever to do with a political and secular question. This was what is meant by the declaration that "love is the fulfilling of the law." Ministers of the gospel ought to le brave and true men, standing in pulpit and on platform for God and righteousness, but they ought to let the lobbies of the legislature alone. The councils of the church ought not oget more "progressive" than the moral results of the gospel which it preaches. December 20th.—My Dear Lowndes: Tonight as I was on my way to work I met the straggling column of confederate veterans and followed them to the fair. I saw the old gray coats, the faitering steps, the arrapped blankets, and watching them till they blurred on my sight, I went to my work.

But I find that the gray coats and the worn faces haunt me. They keep coming between me and the paper on which I write. So let me exorcise them and gratify the precious memories they have evoked, by sending you all the money I have about my clothes: It is just $14.00—and here it is. If this trifle will make happy for one hour one old confederate, who needs and deserves his country's gratitude, it will have brought to me the very best of Christmas gifts. The Hartford Times gave such a perfect notice of the play that it deserves reproduction. "When, several months ago, Mrs. Fiske offered a play to the public, everybody knew it must be bright and trenchant, because such "is the nature" of the woman, and nothing dull or time-worn ever came out of her. The literary circles of New York were interested, and the journalistic world—her world—was all pleasantly astir. The first production proved a pronounced ovation to the author, the manager and the actors, and in the enthusiasm of the evening, Philip Herne was voted a tremendous success, Mrs. Fiske has worked after models. Her most impressive character, the hero, recalls strongly "Jean Valjean" in Les Miserables, a work that stirred the world a generation ago, and which one is happy to have recalled in "Phillip." "Jean" is a grand prototype, and Mrs. Fiske does not step below Victor Hugo's level in her reproduction. The scenes are strongly linked, the whole sweeps on with a dash borrowed from the author's impetuous nature, it leaps over years and difficulties without asking how, and arrives at the end with a surety of aim and logical result that appear inevitable. Every act culminates in an atsorbing scene, every act has its rhythmic rise of character-unfolding; every act these the mind full of problems, and in every act the physic dramatic undercurrent is far more powerful than the simple out-acting of the plot. And still, one more strength of the play lies in the vigor of sentiment and the freshness of illustration, while another is the clear trenchant English of the style. "Sabre cuts of Saxon speech" is not inappropriate to some of the phrases. The infinite pity, the chaity, the faith, the nobility of heart, the chivalry of soul, the 'divinity of self-sacrifice, the agony of remorse, the gentleness of suffering are genuine; these are colmed in the true mint of a woman's exaled nature, and these sele upon all human hearts by their inherent at d-strong humanity.

Miss Clayton.

Miss Estelle Clayton's dramatic version of Miss Rives's romance, "The Quick or the Dead," is an artistic improvement upon the original. As a play this story has been endowed with life, with a show of reason for the actions of the heroine and with a contrastic phase of comedy which is decidedly refreshing. It is a play that will stand comparison with the best that have been produced here, abounding as it does in interesting situations and sparkling with witty dialogue. Miss Clayton is a very beautiful woman, and as an actrees reminds one forcibly of Miss Davenport. She makes a great deal out of the character of Barbara and compels the sympathy of the audience. sympathy of the audience.

the services by reading from the Scriptures and prayer.

Mrs. E. C. Witter, president of the old and original association, read an interesting paper on the origin of the union, its aims and objects. Her address was made more impressive by the reading of statistics from a little book called "bying at the lap." She enlarged on the close relationship between liquor and Hearticonsers, She also dwelt on the fact that few young men, comparatively speaking, are church members and thristian workers. She ursod that the parents of the children do not leave to the coming generation the great work that should be inaugurated at once.

After a solo, "The Empty Vessel," by Mrs. Sprague, Rev. W. P. Wadsworth, of the North Georgia conference, delivered an address full of points of encouragement to the cause, the stated that in an itinerant ministerial work covering a period of seventeen years he had never lived in a town that did not go dry. He made a strong argument against the every two year's vote in the local option clause, and said that he was in favor of total prohibition by legislative enactment, and that nothing else would fill the measure. He spoke of the work of the legislature on educational matters and deprecated the fact that the proceeds of the liquor tax went to the educational fund.

His speech was very forcible, and was listened to with much attention.

Just before the close, a young—man from this delegation stated that a juvenile society had been organized, weeting at the Third Presbyterian church every Su: d. y afternoon, and invited everybody to send their children to the meeting.

After the benediction the assembly dispersed.

Week of Prayer. The Baptist ladies' week of prayer, held each afternoon of this week from 3 to 4 o'clock in the pastor's study of the First Baptist church, is very interesting. Much information with regard to their mission work, in both the home and foreign fields, may be obtained by attending these meetings, besides the spiritual refreshing which always attends these seasons of prayer. This branch of woman's work has grown very much in the past few years. The Baptist women of Georgia contributed upwards of $10,000 to the Lord's treasury during the past year. They are well organized, and the correspondence with the two hundred societies requires all the time of their corresponding secretary, who has labored diligently, day and night over ten years, to bring the work to its present efficiency. She has found the distribution of missionary literature one of the greatest aids in her work, perhaps the greatest. It was veterans day at the fair and the "boys" themselves had arranged the programme.

At 70 clock last evening they met at Veterans hall on Broad street. There were about fifty in all, the company being under the command of Colonel W. L. Calhoun as captain. Major Dunwoody, a veteran of the Indian, Mexican and civil wars, was first lieutenant and Captain George B. Forbes acted as orderly.

Arrived at tithe fair, they were met by General Longstreet and General Young, who received the veterans. They were marched to the third floor where the people had gathered to hear them sing and talk. General Longstreet was billed as musical director. General Young and Colonel Calhoun were on the stage with him.

Orderly Forbes called the roll, and then the veter anssang 'Dixie' and 'Aunie Laurie.' The pleasand duty of selecting those who should participate in the exercises fell to Orderly Forbes, and the following were his victims:

Hamilton, Captain W. H. Harrison, Major J. H. Ketner, Captain W. H. Harrison, Major J. H. Ketner, Captain W. McQuaid and Major Tom Williams.

After the singing by the veterans, General Long-street delighted the audience by performing with rare grace an Indian war dance. Then Mr. L. P. Hills recited a humorous selection in a dictidedly humorous way. General Young was called for and apolocized for his mability to cater to the amusement of the audience by stating that a builet in his throat prevented his singing, and one in his leg made it impossible for him to dance.

Judge Calhoun, in behalf of the association, thanked the visitors, one and all, for their interest in the fair, and assured them that the fund would be properly applied.

Judge Calhoun then read the following letter from Mr. H. W. Grady:

December 20th.—My Dear Lowndes: Tonight as I was on my way to work I met the straggeling column of confederate veterans and followed them to the fair. I saw the old gray coats, the faitering steps, the strapped blankets, and watching them till they blurred on my sight, I went to my work.

the liartford Times gave such a perfect notice of the play that it deserves reproduction.

"When, several months ago, Mrs. Fishe offered a play to the public, everybody knew it must be bright and trenchant, because such "is the nature" of the woman, and nothing dult or time-worn ever came out of her. The literary-circles of New York were interested, and the journalistic world—her world—was all pleasantly astir. The first production proved a pronounced ovation to the author, the manager and the actors, and in the enthusiasm of the evening. Philip Herne was voted a tremendous success. The best judges seem to agree that the market is ripening to a point at which some interesting devel-

ions differ very decidedly asto whether such change will be in the direction of better or lower prices. There are signs today that the buying has been of a substantial character and that cotton, especially more distant positions, is passing into the hands of people who are content to hold it for a considerable improvement. The bear element here, while evidently disinclined to sell much cotton, has been constant in their attacks upon the market, and flushed with their success thus far tengtonsly.

NEW YORK. December 20.—The slock market, outside of coalers and grangers, was very dull today, but animation in these shares ran the total of shares sold up to something over those of yesterday. The tone of the list was feverish and unsettled, prices fluctuating between very narrow limits and finishing within slight fractions of last evenings figures. Coal stocks, however, were strong features, while grangers were weak. The former were influenced by excellent buying, presumably for insiders, and by excellent buying, presumably for insiders, and new bull combinations which have been lately formed, while grangers feit the influence of the slow progress in fixing up matters at Chicago and Island dividend matter also had its effect upon them, but when the final announcement was made that the expected reduction had been made it was found to have been freely discounted, though another drive at Omaha met with considerable success. cess. The temper of the room was moderately builtsh this morning, and while there was no disposition to trade no long stock came out even in raids of the bears, and the general improved feling was sufficient to keep prices up to the level of last night's figures throughout the day. Finar changes are very irregolar and generally for small inactions only, but Delaware and Hydson rose 2% per cent and Lackawanna 1, while Omaha preferred lost 2 cent. Richmond and West Point preferred 1

Major George Davis, one of the well known officers of the Standard Oil company, will wed an accomplished young lady of Baxley, Ga., on Christmas eve. The wedding will occur at the Markham house in this city. The major has many warm friends through the south where he is well known

A happy marriage occurred yesterday at the residence of the bride's parents, No. 49 Hood street. It was the union of Mr. J. A. Erwin and Miss Ida Harris. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a number of friends and relatives of the contracting parties, by Rev. W. R. Bris coe, pastor of the Baptist church of West Point, Ga. After numerous congratulations and an elegant lunch, the wedding party were driven to the depot, where they took the 1:20 train for West Point.

Mr. Erwin is the efficient agent of the Atlanta and West Point railroad at West Point. His bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. P. Harris, and is one of the loveliest and most accomplished young ladies of our city. Their popularity was attested by many handsome presents.

Misses Estora and Annie Stephens, who are visiting friends in Albany have simply captured that city. They are enjoying a royal time, entertainments in their honor are given every night of the week. The Albany boys are excessable. Miss Estora and Miss Annie are equally fascinating at home.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Wood will be pained to learn that they are both confined to sick beds. They have the sympathy of everyone in this double infliction. Mrs. G. P. Stovall, teacher of the kinder garten department of Mrs. Ballard's institute, wil give an entertainment at the institute this morning at 10 o'clock. It will be a very pleasing affair, as the little ones have been thoroughly taught and drilled in all the departments. Mrs. Stovall cor-diatly invites the parents and friends of the chil-dren to attend. Miss Adeline Adair has returned from Augusta, where she had a delightful visit.

accomplished young ladies.

Dr. C. E. Murphy and bride are at the Kimball house. Accompanied by Dr. N. O. Harris and Dr. A. C. Moreland, they reached the city yesterday by the Gsorgia Midland. Dr. Murphy married Miss Bennie Crawford yesterday morning at ten o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents in Columbus, the Rev. Dr. Loyd, of the Br. Paul's church, officiating. The attendants were Dr. A. O. Moreland, of Atlanta, and Miss Belle Bt. Paul's church, officiating. The attendants were Dr. A. C. Moreland, of Atlanta, and Miss Belle Allen, of Montgomery; Dr. N. O. Harris, of Atlanta, and Miss Willis, of Columbus; Dr. C. G. McGown and Miss Swift, of Columbus, Mr. M. Chanceflor and Miss Cox, of Augusta, and Mr. Harris and Miss Marcus, of Columbus.

After the ceremony the guests enjoyed a most elegant breakfast. The bride and groom were then escorted to the train by a large number of friends and were received at the Kimball by Atlanta friends.

Mrs. Murphy is handsome, accomplished and attractive, and has been a great favorite in society since her debut. She comes from one of Georgia's oldest and most respected families, and will soon be as popular in Atlanta as she was in Columbus.

Br. Murphy is well known in Atlanta, and his many friends wish him much happiness.

The Christmas tree at the Industrial union has been heautifully trimmed by Gussie Grady, Katle Stocking, Lucy Peel and Mamie Gude, with strings of popcorn, and cranberries, and bags of candy, oranges and fruits—and at 12 o'clock today the children of the school will receive in addition, warm stockings and gloves, and handkerehies and books, donated by fri n is of the institution. By invitation of the p esident, Mrs. Grady, the members of the council will be present, with the mayor and other guests, who will witness the good work now being done in this bome. All the members of the union are desired to be present.

ED ANGIER TALKED. SOME EXTRACTS FROM INTERVIEWS IN THE NORTH.

He Thinks the Negroes Oppressed, and Talks of "Bourbon Democrats"-General Harrison's Victory and the South. Now, that Messrs. Ed and Alton Angler have returned from their western tour, many stories of their trip and the talk they made Mr. Ed Angier appears to have been the two gentlemen talked at clubs, at dinners and to reporters, and some of their talk will prove mighty interesting to their Atlanta In the Chicago Tribune of the 7th appears the following:

Hon. E. A. Angier and Alton Angier, of Atlanta,
Ga., are at the Grand Pacific. They are both native went their from New England. He was state treasurer of Georgia for four years, and afterwards mayor of Allanta, and he could have been governor had be consented to accept the nomination. His sous are here after having been to Indianapolis to congratulate the president-elect. Their opposition to free trade democracy led them to support General Harrison in the campaign, and they are enthusiastic over the indications that the south will no longer be "solid." I. A. Angier is a leading lawyer and stumped Georgia for the republicans, and if was Alton Angier who, the dispatches amounced, onset the vote of ex-Governor Brown election day, in the same precinct, by cating an open republican ballot. For this it was said Mr. Angier would be deprived of his position as assistant passenger agent of the Western and Atlantic road, of which ex-Governor Brown is president, but "Joe" Brown is soo much of a gentleman, though he is a democrat to discharge an employ who differs from him politically.

The same paper states that the two gentle men lunched at the club with Hen .Robert T. Lincoln and that later Mr E. A. Angier dined with Mr. Lincoln en famille.

In the Inter-Ocean of the same date, Mr. E. A. Angier is interviewed to the extent of a full column. In the interview some rather strange words came out of Mr. Angier's mouth. Here is some of it:

"I came to this conclusion," said Mr. Angier, spenaling of his change in politics, "while absent from home in the mountains, and wrote of my determination to a friend at Atlanta. He published the letter, unexpectedly to me, and I didn't know but I should be treated to a little social discipling when I went home. But I made some speeches in the neighborhood where I was, and on my return to Atlanta I didn't notice that my friends treated me any differently from the usual way."

"Bo you consider it strange that such was the case?"

"Do you consider it strange that away was see case?"

"Not in Atlan'a. Public sentiment has reached such a point in and around Atlanta that a man can openly proclaim his politics without fear of social ostracism. There are many parts of the south where this is not true. Atlanta is the most northernized city in the south. Northern capital has come in there in large quantities, and there are many factories and such places which are practically new to the south."

one south."

"You have just come from it danapolis, Mr. urgier. What do you think of the president elect."

"I am charmed with him, and I regard his election as a great step toward the real reconstruction and unless of the south and north."

"What do you gather as to the probable policy of he president elect as to the south?"

"Nothing. Mr. If rison properly refrains from romises and forceasts. I consider it a great Linner that anything was ever said about a southern testion. There was an immediate clamer through he south upon Harrison's election as to his 'policy' oward the southern states. We heard no such insurer greating the west or the northwest or there oward the southern states. We heard no such in-pultry regarding the west or the northwest-or other acts of the country. The cry in the south sprung-roma a guilty knowledge smong the bourbon barons hat there was something wrong there, and they vanied to know what the new president would do thout it. We hear a good deal of talk about a vigor-ous foreign policy; what we want is a vigorous do-nestic policy."

"To you think there is much intimidation of the colored voters now in the south."

"Not at Atlanta. But in other parts of the south there is. There are still the same classes in the south, the build zing bourhon barons, the nen who were the ruling class before the war, men who believe that they should rule by divine right; then the great middle class people of moderate means, who are in reality opposed to this old feudal aristocracy; then the poor whitestand, finally, the pregrees, whenever the political bases would kill a man politically, they fire the color line at him, and try to make him out the associate of the negroes."

"What, then, is to be done."

"I looked with much interest upon the meeting between President-elect Harrison and General Longstreet. It seemed prophetic of a heartier union between the north and south. They can't yell nigger at Longstreet, you know; and there are others like him who are strong men in the south. If General Harrison will carefully avoid carpet bargers and that element, in short, absenteeism, the matter will be much easier solved."

"What positive measure would you advocate."

THE ANGIERS SOMEWHAT TOO FRESH

To Suit the Ideas of the Veteran Colonel-Old Leaders.

WASHINGTON, December 21.-[Special.]-Colonel Buck has gone home.

The colonel has evidently been very badly disappointed in his mission here, and as he took his departure tonight, he wore an expres-sion of unmistakable disgust, but he is not a sion of unmistakable disgust, but he is not a candidate for a cabinet portfolio, neither is he going to Indianapolis to tell General Harrison about the republican situation in Georgia. Colonel Buck would give no reason for not going out to Indianapolis, but the correspon-dent of the Courier-Journal had a talk with him this afternoon, and writes to his paper tonight that the colonel, although he attempted to work it through Senator Sherman, failed to get an invitation from the president-elect. This same correspondent goes on to say that Buck has found room for serious criticism of POTSUNESS OF THE ANGIER BOYS who never voted a republican ticket until they voted for Harrison, and until they voted for Harrison, and that Ed. Angier refused to make more than one political speech in the state of Georgia. He is of the impression that the Angier boys, in their mysterious trip to Indianapolis in company with General Longstreet, are laboring under the fond hallucination that General Harrison has promised them soft snaps, and will turn over to them all of the Georgia patronage. It was a well known fact Georgia patronage. It was a well known fact that when the Angiers were here they had a strong leaning toward that "illustrious and time tried" republican, General Mahone, for a cabinet portfolio. This is taken to mean, upon the part of Colonel Buck, a menace to his aspirations: hence the apparent growth of antipathy upon the part of the veteran colonel toward the overambitious kids. Buck gives out the impression, though he does not say so in fact, that the empire state of THE SOUTH IS NOT LARGE ENOUGH

THE SOUTH IS NOT LARGE ENOUGH at the same time for he and the angier boys in the great struggle for spoils. Colonel Buck does not believe that the youngest will be able to hold the party in the state up by the tail without some assistance from those who have grown grey in the service of the G. O. P. This correspondent their divulges the fact that "the prominent republicans are inclined to take exception to Buck's claim for a cabinet place upon the ground that the only republican from the state of Georgia signing his letters of indorsement is H. I. Kimball, while there glitter in the sunlight an array of names all of whom are among the most prominent and influential demecrats of the south. The impression prevails here that either Colonel Buck or the Angiers must leave the state for the sake of party harmony."

THE SOUTH AND CARINET.

The Post this morning prints an interview with Senator Colquitt, in which he expresses the opinion that General Harrison will have a southern republican in his cabinet. He then says: "Hon. A. E. Buck, of Atlanta, would be as acceptable as any republican would be to the democrats of my state. Mr. Buck is now clerk of the federal circuit court of Atlanta, in which capacity, I believe, he has always conducted himself creditably. Of course, I would rather see General Harrison take a good obt time democrat with sturdy democratic principles in his cabinet, but as there is not much likelihood of that, we do feel interested in seeing a republican, if one is taken from the south, who is in good standing among his fellow men.

VERY SLOW WORK.

Senator Vest States the Difference Between

Day Labor and Contracts.
Washington, December 21.—In the senate, WASHINGTON, December 21.—In the senate, Mr. Chandler presented three additional memorials, numerously signed, from three voting precincts in Orangeburg county, South Carolina, alleging the denial of the right of voting at the late election, and praying an investigation.

Mr. Hale, from the committee on naval af-Mr. Hate, from the committee on navar at-fairs, reported back the senate bill giving to the Pensacola and Memphis Railroad compa-ny the right-of-way through the United States naval and military reservation near Pensacola, Florida. Passed.

Florida. Passed.

The public printing deficiency bill was reported back, without amendment. by Mr.
Hale, and was passed. It appropriates $63,000 for that purpose and $5,000 for observation of the eclipse of the sun on the first of January next.

The resolution offered yesterday by Mr. Teller, for the appointment of a committee to investigate the office of the supervising architect of the treasury during the administration of the present supervising architect was taken in.

up.

Mr. Vest moved to amend the resolution by making it include also the administration of the last supervising architect.

Mr. Teller accepted the amendment. Mr. Allison inquired of Mr. Vest what the object of amendment was.

Mr. Vest said he took it for granted that the Proposed investigation was not a personal at-

of amendment was.

Mr. Vest said he took it for granted that the proposed investigation was not a personal attack. He intended none by his amendment; but if he had learned anything as a member of the committee on public buildings and grounds (with which he had been connected ten years) it was the absolute and unquestionable vice of the present system in regard to the construction of public buildings. He would put the whole matter of construction of public buildings under the contract system which, he said, was infinitely superior to other system. In that connection, Mr. Vest told of a conversation which he had recently had with General Casey, "the test administrative officer in the erection of public buildings in the United States, if not in the world," in which General Casey compared the cost of frescoing and plastering in the south wing of the state, war and navy building by days! work, $108,600, with the cost of like work in the north wing, exactly the same dimensions, by contract, at $35,000, the latter work being done in one-third of the time that other occupied.

Mr. Vest also referred to the slow manner in which the work on the capitoi parapets was being carried on; and to the new library building, which he said would not have been completed during the life of the youngest senator if it had been left under the day's work system.

After considerable discussion Mr. Hawley moved to amend the resolution by striking out the preamble and merely instructing the committee on public buildings and grounds to investigate the conduct of the effice.

As thus modified it was agreed to.

The resolution offered yesterday by Mr. Plamb calling on the secretary of the treasury for a statement as to the purchase of bonds since the fourth of March, 1885, was taken up and agreed to.

The house bill to remove the political disabilities of John H. Parker of Vircinia.

since the fourth of March, 1885, was taken up and agreed to.

The house bill to remove the political disabilities of John H. Parker, of Virginia, was reported and passed.

Mr. Chandler gave notice that on the first day after the holiday recess, he would move to take up his resolution, for the appointment of a committee to inquire into the Louisiana election of last April.

The senate then at 1 o'clock took up the tariff bill resuming its consideration at sechedule 1, "Cotton manufactures." Mr. Vest moved to amend the first paragraph of schedule 313 by striking out the words "ten cents per pound, (it applies to thread, yarns, etc., valued at not exceeding twenty-five cents per pound)
